e won; Oh my, what joy! and to think that only 600 fans wer make the bold, bad Indians from Spokane ite the dust in several places. The doings were worth an attendance of thouands instead of hundreds. It was the fastest game played here this season. In fact, it might be called the only game we have had. It was really the opening the season-for Salt Lake fans, and the home team will only keep up the od work, it can have about anything it of the home team will only keep up the good work, it can have about anything it wants.

Not only because the team wen, and wen decisively, but because it played shutout bail, good bail and champlonship bail, nearly all the time. Keep it up boys! You've shown the fans what you can do, and if you will keep "adoin' of it' the pennant may yet wave in this city. While the crowd was not all that the game deserved in point of numbers, it tried to make up for it in rooting. The fans could'nt help yelling. The pitching was of high class order, the fielding fill-edged and the base-running good. Both pitchers were given splendid support. This sort of thing was continued until the last man was retired. Except for a brief period of showers and wind, the weather was not at all bad, and the weather was not at all bad, and the weather man promises better things for the balance of the week. The diamond was in much better shape than was expected, and if no more rain comes, it will be in perfect shape by tomorrow.

Up until the last inning, there were indications of a shutout, with the Indians on the outside. In this inning they managed to get one man into camp after considerable work and werry. Ferris started the thing with a nice single just over the second station. He was followed by Baxter, who contributed another down to right, and a score was made by Martinke's fly to middle. During all this time, only one Indian, except Ferris, reached as far as third base. This was because Thomas was decidedly miseryl in the matter of hits, passes and other things that assist in run getting. Once he there a "spit" ball that didn't travel in exactly the course intended, and this gave Raymond a chance to reach third. But he died there.

Besides pitching a great game of ball, allowing six well scattered hits. Thomas

Raymond a chance to reach third, But he died there.

Besides pitching a great game of ball, allowing six well scattered bits, Thomas was all over the infield, stopping swiftly batted balls, and making almost impossible catches. Six assists are chaiked up to his credit. Reilly and Delmas also did some brilliant fielding.

The locals get their first in the third inning. A two-base smash by Thomas started things. He was helped along by a sacrifice by Stickney and O'Brien's single to left scored the 'spit' ball artist, in the next inning the leader of the pale faces. Reilly, began the trouble with a double, went to third on a sacrifice by Delmas and came home on a double hy Leahy. The latter scored a few seconds later by a single from Haynes. This was not all. The student election at the University of Utah came at an unfortunate time this year, according to the experiences of Coach Maddock and the advisory coaching board. Yesterday afternoon Mr. Callahan secured Lynn Adsit, the famous Princeton half-miler, to go to the campus and give the men a few pointers on the special event. When they arrived, however, the men who were supposed to be in training were away in the hills fighting for their class numerais, and to lay a sore muscled crowd are on hand to resume the work of perfecting themselves for Saturday. The feeling that the University has a walkover is working to the detriment of coaching on the home campus, and is causing some alarm in the makers of the dope shets who have conceded points to Utah men.

Quite a number of fight "fans" have seen fit since the Britt-White mill to criticise Charley Mitchell for sending White out after Britt in the last round. There has been quite a let of talk about that action and those who have criticised it have said that it should never have ben done. Some claim that had White kept Britt off for that last round the referee might have given him a draw, white still others have even gone so far as to hint that the referee might have even given him the decision.

"I did it for what seemed to me the best reason in the world," replied Mitchell. "I could see that the only chance for White to get a decision was to knock Britt out in the final round, which he might possibly have done had he been able to land a lucky punch, as he was still strong up to that time.

"I did not consider that there was a chance in the world for him to get as much as a draw, and would have considered such a decision as unfair had White stayed the limit and the bout been caled a draw. Britt, I considered, had the best of it all the way through with the possible exception of two, or maybe three rounds. that might have been in White's favor. Of course, if by any chance he could have landed that one lacky punch he might have won, White acknowledged after the fight that the best man won, and that ought to settle the matter for once and all."

It has seklom been known for the defeated to take their medicine as gracefully as have White and Mitchell, and if they are satisfied with results and the decision they got after White had put up the best fight he could, that certainly should settle the matter.

Splendid Fleet of Sailing Vessels Now on Three Thousand Mile Journey.

AMERICAN BOAT IN THE LEAD.

Atlantic Was Off First and Quarter Of a Mile Astern Was Yawl Ailsa -- Interest in London.

New York, May 17 .- A splendid fleet of sailing yachts swept across a starting line at Sandy Hook lightship at 12:15 p. m. today and, with the queenly American race of 3,000 miles to the English coast for a $5,000 cup offered by Emperor William of Germany. When last seen, as they vanished into the mist, they were strung out in a line six miles long, hauling southwestward and pointing as nearly as possible to a wind that was dead

Batteries-Miller and Frary; Graham and Bryne. A quarter of a mile astern of the Atlantic was the ninety-foot American yawl, Allsa, which was having a hot brush with the German schooner Hamburg, while all three of the leaders were slowly dropping the Philadelphia schooner Hidegarde. Next was the Endymion, holder of the transatiantle yachting record. Almost a mile astern of the Atlantic and more than hair a mile astern of the Endymion were the Thistic and Fleur de Lis. Strung out behind were the American bark Apache, the British topsail schooner Sunbeam, and, five miles astern of the leader, the American three-masted schooner Utowana. Brining up the rear was the British clipper ship Calhalla. These two had been delayed by a bad start.

Leaden skies, low-hanging, mist-laden clouds and a moderate east wind were A quarter of a mile astern of the At-schooners.

Weather prophets declared it not unlikely that he racers were in for a day or two more of mederate head whids. If the forecast be fulfilled, nothing but half a gale of wind from astern will save the big Vaihalla from defeat.

Despite the lowering weather conditions, the start of the great and heterogeneous fleet was inspiring. After the postponement of the day before the yachts lay in their anchorages within the shelter of Sandy Hook ist night. The fog of the day previous had lifted considerably, but still hung low and obscured the vision beyond a few miles.

GERMAN SCHOONER HAMBURG. GERMAN SCHOONER HAMBURG.

GERMAN SCHOONER HAMBURG.

The German schooner Hamburg was the first to leave the anchorage and pass out through Gedney's channel. The Valhalia, Alisa and Thistie followed, and before 10:30 the fleet was steaming in tow out through the channel toward the lightship and pass the stranded Cunard liner Caronia, whose pasengers crowded the rails to witness the procession.

The committee boat, with Commander Heblinghaus of the German navy, Commander H. H. Hosley of the United States navy, Oliver E. Cromwell, Newbury D. Lawton, H. DeB, Parrons and Edward H. Wales of the New York Yacht club on board, anchored one-eighth of a mile east of Sandy Hook lightship and established the starting line between them shortly after 11 o'clock.

A fleet of yachts and ships began to assemble. As the racers began to assemble. As the racers began to assemble, As the racers began to arrive they were towed to the north and windward of the starting line. Most of the schooners, soon after reaching the start-Young Corbett and Eddie Hanlon are busily at work preparing for their third battle, to be held before the San Francisco club the 2nd of next month. While the attraction is not by any means a novelty, there is more than a little interest displayed regarding the respective merits of the two boys at this stage of their cureer. As to the lack of novelty in the match Tim McGrath gaid the other day:

miring spectators.

Meanwhile the wide topsails of the Valhalia were unfurled and sheeted home, and one after another the tal topsails, topgaliant sails, royals and siysails of the square-rigged craft were spread to the soft breeze.

The blue peter giving warning of impending departure was run up on this mast of the committee tag. At possible the season of the committee tag, at possible the was a flash and spurt of smoke from the gun on her deck, and a warning report rolled among the fleet, giving notice that the race would start in lifteen minutes. Ten minutes later another gun sounded, and the prow of every craft swang toward the starting line.

It was an inspiring spectacle. Near the line the small Aliea, bearing every mark of the racer, was engaged in a lockeying match with the Hildegarde, and to avoid being forced across the line prematurely, performed some startling maneuvers, sehind them to the north and east the fleet spread out in fan shape. Close astern of the leaders was the Atlantic, where Capit, Charles Barr had placed her in well-timed position.

UTOWANA BECAME POCKETED.

UTOWANA BECAME POCKETED. The Endymion, Hamburg and Thistles swept down toward the line from a windward position, and, crowding close upon the quarter of the latter was the majestic Valhalia, whose everymest was a leaning spire of towering canvas gently bellying before the breeze and sweeping her toward the line. Still further were the Sunbeam and Apache, taking plenty of sea room to pile on sail and get under way.

way.

Almost at the flash of the starting gun the Afisa and Hildegarde went across the line, with the yawl slightly in the lead

As the vessels crowded together at the windward end of the starting line, each captain anxious to secure the weather position, the schooners in the lead crowded the Utowana and Valhalia so hadly that they were unable to cross the line without a collision. They approached the line from such a direction that the other yachts were crossing ther bows, yet they sailed to their course so long that the Utowana, the leader of the two, became pocketed so that she could not be turned about.

Among the leaders the yawi, Alisa, clining to the windward position, and quickly drew away from the Hildegarde. The long, lean three-master Atlantic, with Capt. Barr at the helm, went aft and slipped by them both like a keen greyhound, and at her stern ching the German, Hamburg, which in the first five minutes had almost everhauled the Alisa and dropped the Endymion astern of her. It was evident that the German was hot after the flying leader, more than a quarter of a mile ahead, and that Capt. Barr was wasting not a moment in securing the position in which he has so often phacea American craft—the lead. It was to be a posal battle between the Yankee by adoption and the Teuton, with Lemuel Miller of the Alisa and the Gloucester fishing skipper, Capt. Borden of the Fleur de Lis, each eager for the lead and wise in ways to get it.

Strung out, the long fleet faded into the dim horizon and was gone.

INTEREST IN LONDON.

London, May 18.—Interest in the transstiantic yacht race started from Sandy Hook lightship to the Lizard for the cup offered by Emperor Witheim is as yet largely confined to yachting circles in London, but reports of its progress from passing vessels are certain to arouse popular enthusiasm in this city. Experts here are inclined to favor the chance of the Atlantic from a strictly expert viewpoint while the Valhalia naturally is the favorite of the Englishmen, who are wishing for heavy winds. Betting on the race has not yet commenced.

The committee of bidges, composed of the German naval attache in London, Bir Edward Birkbeck, chairman of the Royal National Lifeboat Institution, and Rear Commodore C. L. F. Robinson of the New York Yacht club will be on board Lord Londale's yacht alongside the German cruiser Pfell at the finish line. INTEREST IN LONDON
